Headline:
Further gales and showers on Tuesday. Brighter, drier on Wednesday.

Today:
A cloudy but bright and largely dry start. Some sunny spells will develop during the morning along with a scattering of showers, these perhaps becoming heavy in the northernmost counties during the afternoon. Very windy, with gales likely in Kent. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Tonight:
A band of heavy showers is likely to slowly die away while moving south during the night, leaving quite a legacy of cloud across the region later in the night. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Wednesday:
A mixture of sunny spells and scattered showers, locally heavy during the afternoon. Showers dying away during the evening. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Sunny spells and isolated showers on Thursday and Friday. Largely dry. Becoming wet and windy after a bright start Saturday. Remaining chilly, with some overnight frosts.
